ITALY PLEADS FOR SOFTER PEACE

TREATY TERMS DEADEN HOPE, SAYS PREMIER

Peace Conference Sets New Precedent By Hearing Defeated Nation.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(INS)—Flat prediction that proposed internationalization of Trieste will lead to a new world war was made today by Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy.

PARIS — (INS) — Premier Alcide de Gasperi made an impassioned plea today before the Paris peace conference for softer terms, declaring that the treaty as presently drafted is of a "punitive character."

Making history, in that he was the first representative of a defeated nation to plead his country's case before a treaty-making body, the Italian premier told the 21 victor nations that the proposed treaty is "extremely severe."

Referring specifically to the troublesome Trieste problem, De Gasperi said it was "compromised from the beginning by persistent war psychology, by constantly referring to the supposed right of the first occupant, and by the absence of a truce between the two parties most directly interested."

Worse Than Versailles.

The Italian spoke after a new clash of personalities developed when the Soviet Union and her satellite nations insisted upon a consultative position for the pro-Communist governments of Premier Enver Hoxha of Albania.

Speaking in Italian, De Gasperi complained that this treaty gives less hope than that of Versailles. He declared:

"Permit me to say with the frankness demanded of each of us in this historic hour . . . from the Italian viewpoint, the treaty is extremely severe. . . .

"This time we do not even see the gleam of hope of Versailles, or know that there is a program of general disarmament of which disarmament of the vanquished is merely a prelude."

De Gasperi said that he seeks a "general, durable peace," and went on:

"Honorable delegates, I ask you to have confidence to give strength to the Italian republic—a working people of 47 millions is ready to associate its work to yours, to create a more just world."

The bespectacled, dark-suited De Gasperi mounted the rostrum at 4:15 p. m., shortly after the plenary session was marred by a clash between the chair and the Soviet delegation.

Premier-President Georges Bidault of France, official host to the conference, rebuked Andrei Vishinsky, deputy Soviet delegate, for attempting to speak when he did not have the floor.

In the midst of a flurry of discussion that included Yugoslavian charges that Greece is attempting to foment a new war in the Balkans, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov left the conference chamber.

AWAIT REPORT

Police Hope Print Analysis Will Help Solve Mystery.

ASHLAND—Police today were still awaiting the FBI report on fingerprints and bloodstains that is expected to lead to a verdict in the eight-day-old mystery death of Mrs. Kate Semler, 48, whose slashed body was found in a cistern at the rear of her home.

Police Chief Harry Smith said today that the report from Washington headquarters of the FBI had not reached him.

Dislikes Father— Dislikes Son

TOLEDO—(INS)—Like father, like son—even in divorce court.

Jack Gregg, the father, and Jack Gregg, the son, both were free of marital bonds today after their respective wives won twin divorce suits in Lucas county common pleas court.

Mrs. Aminda Gregg won hers Tuesday from the father on the grounds of cruelty and neglect. Mrs. Marie Gregg completed the process yesterday when she obtained a divorce from the son on the same grounds.

EXPERTS TAKE PART IN PARK WATER SHOW

Final Rehearsals Held for Safety Program Scheduled Sunday Afternoon.

There will be both entertainment and instruction tomorrow afternoon at the Mansfield Water Safety show at Liberty park where expert swimmers and divers and safety authorities will present a program, starting at 3 p. m.

Final rehearsal for the event was held last night as the Red Cross Water troupe, directed by Fred Bardsley, held final practice in equipment rescues from drowning, small craft and swimming rescues, proper boating practices, and demonstrations of swimming strokes.

Sponsored jointly by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and the Richland county Red Cross Water Safety council, the show will include demonstrations by four all-American swimming stars, a demonstration of the iron lung, casting contest, and a concert during the afternoon by the new American Legion band, directed by Jack Lewis.

Scheduled for the evening show are a concert by the Liberty park band at 7 p. m. and two safety movies at 8:30 p. m.

"Screwdrivers and Screwjays" is the title of one movie in which comedian Lew Lehr illustrates what happens to the screwy driver, and Don Wilson plays the part of a jaywalker, effectively teaching a safety lesson with a touch of humor and ridicule.

The second of the two movies, entitled "A Safe Day," covers home, highway and industrial safety portraying a typical safe worker in his daily routine.

Ingannation? Obfuscation? Aw, Skip It!

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Democrats and Republicans today coopated their kukri and glaive for the ascerbitious conventicle plebiscital gigantomachy come the hiemal equinox.

And a helluva a battle it should be, too.

Double talk? Hades' wheels, no! Just the new Democratic and Republican way of saying that the two political parties have chosen their weapons for the big congressional election battle this fall.

It'll be dictionaries (unabridged) and thesauri. And let the $40 words fall where they may. Words like ingannation and obfuscation. Abstruseness, that is.

Two-bit stuff is out. Ain't classy enough, son. This is the big leagues.

President Truman, the No. 1 Democrat, and Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, Republican national committee campaign director, gave the bewildered customers a sample yesterday of what's to come. They pulled no pundits. Fact is, they dished it out like a couple of veteran glottologists.

Brown started it all by accusing Mr. Truman of "ingannation" about balancing the federal budget. Ingannation is an obsolete word meaning deception or misrepresentation. Easy! A federal budget is something with figures

Take Bodies From German Red Zone

BERLIN—(U.P.)—A U. S. army truck carrying two soldiers and the bodies of 52 American war veterans, which was reported to have disappeared in the Russian zone of Germany yesterday, arrived today at its destination near Liege, Belgium.

The bodies aboard the truck were disinterred recently from makeshift graves in the Russian zone. Most of the men were airmen who were victims of Nazi atrocities during the war.

'KIND' WIDOW DENIES GUILT IN POISONING

Officials Exhume Bodies of Persons Who Died Under Woman's Care.

DUPONT, Ind.—(U.P.)—Authorities exhumed two more bodies today in an investigation of alleged poisonings involving a cheerful, motherly widow, who characterized herself as "a friend to everybody."

Mrs. Lottie Lockman, 63, free on bond on charges of attempting to poison Mrs. Mamie McConnell, wife of her wealthy employer, staunchly maintained her innocence of the deaths, which police say may total "four or five in all."

"I'm absolutely innocent," she said. "I'm a friend to everybody and always have been."

The casket containing the remains of Mrs. Minnie McConnell, mother-in-law of the other Mrs. McConnell, was brought up yesterday, and the organs sent to the State Police laboratory at Indianapolis for analysis. Authorities began exhuming the bodies of Walker Lockman, Mrs. Lockman's brother-in-law, and Fred Giddings, 90-year-old farmer today.

Plan Further Check.

Authorities said that if "developments warrant," they also would analyze the bodies of Mrs. Lockman's husband, Frank, who died in 1940, and Mrs. Hattie Calhoun, who Mrs. Lockman nursed before she died in 1937 of what was described as a thyroid condition.

The three bodies being exhumed were those of persons who all died mysterious "sleep deaths" while under Mrs. Lockman's care. She nursed "Uncle Fred" Giddings for six or eight years before he died, willing her his entire estate.

"I'm perfectly willing to have officials exhume the bodies of one or all of the people I've nursed," Mrs. Lockman said last night. "I've cared for several old people who have died. All of them have

FEAR VIOLENCE IN PALESTINE

Officials Flee Government Building After Mystery Warning of Blast.

JERUSALEM —(INS)— Officials hurriedly evacuated the Palestine government land settlement building in the center of Jerusalem today after a mysterious telephone message warned the structure was about to be blown up.

British troops raced to the scene to prevent strangers from entering, while other units were dispatched to police headquarters as reinforcements.

Britain's decision to halt Jewish migration to the Holy Land has produced an almost tangible atmosphere of tension in Palestine.

This was evident today as Jews watched British troops string miles of barbed wire around government buildings, railway stations, broadcasting studios and other public premises.

It was evident, too, in underground reports of full scale reconnaisance by British sea and air units to locate illegal immigrant ships before they reach Palestine territorial waters.

The Royal navy and the RAF have established a blockade along the entire 106 miles of Holy Land coastline, and Jewish leaders are convinced intercepted refugees will be diverted to internment camps on the island of Cyprus.

Zionist spokesmen acknowlege that five blockade runners are already enroute to Palestine, and are determined to assist the newcomers to reach their goal.

Aga Kahn Again Reaps Diamonds

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika —(INS)— The Aga Kahn, richest man in the world and spiritual leader of 20 million Ismali Moslems, weighed-in today for $2,700,000 worth of diamonds collected by his followers.

More than 25,000 Ismali Moslems were among an audience of 60,000 persons who watched the ceremony and gazed with awe on the glittering wealth. Moslem leaders explained that although the gift was made to the Aga Kahn, it was understood he would later distribute it to charities.

That's a Pretty Big Slice, Judy!

Judy Ann Radovich, three-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Radovich, 25 Crestline avenue, tackles a big slice of watermelon at the renewal of the annual melon festival at Johns park.

Melon Supply Runs Out Early at Park Festival

Hundreds Attend North End Party to Make It One of Best; Everything's Sold By 10 P. M.

Lightning and a threat of rain started the crowd home early last night at the traditional Johns park watermelon festival, but not until all the watermelons had been sold.

Hundreds of persons thronged the park grounds during the early evening, and park officials said the attendance was one of the largest ever seen at the festival during its 35-year history.

The supply of 300 watermelons was sold early and by 10 p. m., just about everything else was gone, too, including sandwiches, soft drinks, ice cream, and cake.

The Liberty park band scheduled to provide music during the evening was unable to play, but recorded music was played over a loud speaker during the evening.

One of the oldest annual entertainments in the city, the festival serves as an annual homecoming for former residents of the northern half of the city who like to go back and meet their former neighbors and have a good time.

General chairman for the festival was Dawson Maxwell.

Klan Names Post In Honor of Bilbo

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sen. Theodore "The Man" Bilbo (D), Miss., is a member of the Ku Klux Klan and expects to receive support from the organization.

This was admitted by the congressman who said in a radio interview that he had a Mississippi post of the Klan named after him. In answer to a question, Bilbo said: "I am a member of Ku Klux Klan No. 40, called Bilbo Klan No. 40 of Mississippi."

'Old Bossie' Stays Right On the Job

Come war, peace, or rising prices, old "bossie" still goes on producing one of man's oldest and most nourishing foods. How milk gets to the family dinner table from Mansfield's nearby farms makes interesting reading in Sunday's News-Journal. A complete set of pictures will accompany the story, showing how, step by step, the milk is handled by producer and distributor.

Readers will also get a glimpse of a group of city additions to the north of Mansfield, by camera and story. This is another in the series of stories being written about communities bordering Mansfield.

There is a preview of the two coming productions of the Children's Theater, with pictures of the young thespians rehearsing for the shows. The "Little Princess," a well-known children's classic, is the production now being rehearsed.

The Sunday N-J will give you a "look-in" on rehearsals for the big Water Safety show which will be staged at Liberty Park tomorrow. Swimming stars from Akron and Mansfield will highlight the program.

You'll find these and many more readable features tomorrow.

CHINESE COLD TO PEACE PLEA

General Marshall Pessimistic About Chances of Ending Long Civil War.

NANKIN—(AP)—Peaceful settlement of China's civil war appears impossible, Gen. George C. Marshall and U. S. Ambassador John Leighton Stuart declared today in a frankly pessimistic statement issued even as U. S. marines in North China exchanged fresh shots with Chinese who blew up a coal train they were guarding.

Whether the two American peace negotiators were throwing in the towel after numerous fruitless conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Communist Gen Chou En-Lai was not yet clear. Their dour statement said "every possibility" had been explored toward ending the conflict and developing a democratic form of government for China.

They said the fundamental issues unsolved concern the type of local government to be maintained in areas evacuated as the result of the redisposition of troops of both sides.

Marine headquarters at Peiping announced that four marines riding the caboose of a coal train were fired upon by 50 Chinese (presumed in Peiping to be communists) after charges placed on the tracks derailed the locomotive and eight cars. The marines, unhurt, were picked up by an 80-man rescue patrol. Two Chinese casualties were reported.

Congressmen Take Junket To Alaska

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Members of the house military affairs committee took off today for a six-weeks trip to Alaska, the Pacific and the Far East.

They will study surplus war property disposition, demobilization, military government in occupied areas, army morale, and sites for permanent military bases.

Police Probe Crash In City

No One Injured In Spectacular Mishap On Park Avenue East, But Officers Report 5 Hurt Elsewhere.

A driver "bailed out" of his one and one-half ton truck on Park avenue east yesterday after it had struck a parked car, and the heavy vehicle smashed into three other parked autos, demolishing one of them and damaging the others. No one was injured in the spectacular crash.

Meanwhile, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen reported that five persons, including two pedestrians, were injured in accidents yesterday and last night. One was in critical condition at General hospital today.

Jasper H. Swinehart, 29, of 445½ Springmill street, told police that he swerved his tractor truck in order to avoid a collision with another car in the Park avenue east pile-up.

* * *

Hit Parked Cars.

When the truck struck a parked car owned by John Mastrek, 604 Clifton boulevard, Swinehart said he jumped from the cab. The truck then smashed into three other cars, demolishing one owned by Ralph H. Brown, of 324 Fair street, police said.

Police said that Truck Driver Swinehart could give no reason for jumping from the truck. He fell to the sidewalk but was not injured.

The accident occurred in front of the Art Rattan plant near Hedges street about 3:15 p. m. yesterday. One of the damaged cars was parked on the street, three others in a company driveway.

Other cars damaged in the accident were owned by Frank E. Van Hoesen, of Chicago, vice president of Art Rattan, and Harry E. Terman, of Mansfield, R. D. 1.

* * *

Report Hit-Skipper.

Witnesses told police that the truck, owned by the Motor Freight company, Park avenue west, was struck by a car which did not stop. Officers said that Swinehart had no recollection of the car striking his truck.

The entire front end of the truck was damaged police said. Swinehart estimated that the truck was going about 25 miles an hour when the accident occurred. He said he has been driving for 10 years.

The sheriff's office reported that Patricia Amsbaugh, 7, of 98½ South Foster street, suffered cuts and body bruises when she was struck by a car driven by A. K. Vance, 59 Henry avenue, yesterday at 8:15 p. m. on Jefferson avenue. The girl was treated at General hospital.

State highway patrolmen said that Albert G. McGregor, 79, of Mansfield, received lacerations of the forehead and multiple abrasions when he was struck by a car driven by Clyde E. Higgins, of Shelby.

Officers said that McGregor was walking across State Route

PANIC SWEEPS QUAKE AREAS

20,000 Homeless, 73 Killed By Earth Tremors, Tidal Waves In Caribbean.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic—(AP)—Panic spread through the northern provinces of this battered country today, with hunger threatening the weary population as the result of a six-day ordeal of earthquakes and tidal waves which have killed 73 persons and left 20,000 homeless.

With earth tremors of varying intensity jarring the terrain throughout the republic about every five minutes, fear has gripped the inhabitants, particularly about Bahai Escocesa (Scotch Bay) in the northern part of the island, where there is great apprehension that violent shocks will strike again.

Not a single inhabitant remains in the shattered coastal towns of Matanzas, Puerto Plata, Batey, Samana and Sanchez where there was a swift evacuation following Sunday's earthquakes. Many refugees from the destroyed towns are living in trees and caves in nearby hills. The Red Cross has set up refugee camps in the northern provinces, but present accommodations are not sufficient for the thousands of homeless.

Attempts by the government to rush food to the stricken areas have been seriously hampered by the washing out of roads and bridges by flooded rivers. The food shortage is particularly acute around Bahia Escocesa, where there is also an acute need of clothing and medicines, authorities said.

The shocks were believed caused by a shift in the bed of the Atlantic at its deepest point 50 miles northeast of the island, where the water is 28,680 feet deep.

FAIR WEEKEND

Sunday to Be Ideal for Picnics, Weatherman Promises.

A fair and cool weekend is in prospect for Mansfielders planning outings tomorrow, the weatherman said today.

With the mercury standing at 72 shortly before noon the forecast was for fair and cooler temperatures tonight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

Meanwhile, Mansfield escaped damage from wind and rain storms that struck scattered areas of the state last night. In Columbus, a wind and rain storm accompanied by hail felled trees and utility wires in a score of places and interrupted bus and trolley service.

Lux Patrons Need Some Good Excuses

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Tony Cornero's gambling ship, the Lux, was a quiet, deserted place today as the last of 800 passengers stranded by the long arm of the law were "rescued" by specially chartered water taxis.

Many of the "rescued" passengers were seasick, some were showing signs of fatigue and "nerves," some were worried about their failure to report for work and many of them had "explaining" to do at home.

OPEN DRIVE

Women Ready to Start Room Hunt Monday Morning.

Final instructions were given yesterday to a corps of 40 Mansfield women who will knock on thousands of doors beginning Monday morning as their part in the city's "rent that spare room" drive.

The women were furnished with cards and necessary supplies for registering rooms that either are or will be available for an estimated 5,000 workers.

They heard talks by Frank A. Berkey, campaign chairman, and Mrs. Clark Brook, who heads the corps of canvassing women.

Common Sense on Scents

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

NEW YORK—Where a woman should and should not place her perfumes, and why, is told by Ralph Bienfang, professor of pharmacy, University of Oklahoma, in a book entitled "The Subtle Sense" (University of Oklahoma Press).

The book deals with odors, what makes them, and how they may be used. The first place not to put perfume, says this advisor, is on the dress. Not that the scent will hurt the clothing. But the perfume by capillary attraction diffuses into the cloth.

As a result the perfume is exposed to air on both sides, and the alcohol portion of the liquid is quickly dissipated. That leaves the fragrant substances. These have differing degrees of volatility, some evaporating faster than others. Finally the least volatile alone remain, and often no longer have a pleasing fragrance.

The collar. What has been said about the dress applies equally well to collars, says Professor Bienfang.

Wrists. This, he says, is personal in a way, but gets pretty close to the hands. Forearms and arms also are open to the same objection as wrists.

Palms. "This is," says Prof. Bienfang, "a favorite place with some women; why, it is hard to understand. If the wearer is at dinner, every mouthful of food has perfume as a prologue. Every scent has its place, and food in close association with perfume seems difficult to take. In addition, suppose the lady dances with or is introduced to someone with whom she shakes hands. Few men desire to draw back a perfumed hand. If she were both introduced to a man and danced with him, she would have his right hand and his life hand realy fixed, wouldn't she?"

In the hair. This, says the writer, is a whole lot like putting perfume on the dress. The extreme capillary attraction effect spreads the perfume and exposes it to air, leaving the successively dying components of concentrated scents. Furthermore, the hair, newly washed or not, has its own definite odor, that may or may not blend well with the perfume used.

On furs. This is held to be a cross between applying perfume to the clothing and to the hair. Since furs are not frequently cleaned, the residues of the dead perfumes would really mount up.

The best places for scents are behind the ears and on the shoulders, provided shoulders are decollete. These places, says Professor Bienfang, are utterly personal. The capillarity effect is not so great. Exposure to the air is on one side only. Blending with personal fragrance is effected immediately. There also is an advantage in the humidity the skin supplies the perfume. And finally, once spent, this scent easily washes off.

One-Dish Summer Meals

HAM AND NOODLE CASSEROLE . . . Adds zest to cold meal.

SIMPLE HOT WEATHER MEAL

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
(AP) Press Food Editor.

Most of us realize there should be at least one hot dish in any meal, whatever the weather. The best way to do this in summer, in order to avoid as much bending over a hot stove as possible, is to serve one hot casserole as the main dish. Then the rest of the meal can be cold and still meet the requirements of what is good for you, as well as good.

Here's a suggestion for a hot main-dish casserole.

Ham and Noodle Casserole.

1½ cups noodles
¾ cup ground ham
½ cup grated cheese
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped celery
1½ cups milk
1 or 2 eggs
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt

Cook noodles in briskly boiling salted water for nine minutes. Drain. Grease a baking dish and put a layer of noodles into it. Combine ham, cheese, green pepper and celery. Sprinkle a layer of this mixture over the noodles. Continue layering until ingredients are used up, ending with a layer of noodles on top. Beat egg or eggs slightly and combine with the milk, paprika and salt. Pour over the noodles. Cover the top with buttered crumbs and bake in 350° over for an hour.

This meal can be beautifully completed by the addition of a crisp green salad with tart French dressing, fresh fruit for dessert—and plenty of icy cold tea right straight through.

Iced Tea.

There's many a school of thought on the subject of iced tea—as there is about the hot variety, for that matter! Some say that the only proper way to make iced tea is to pour hot, freshly made tea over ice. This group believes that if the tea is allowed to cool naturally it becomes cloudy.

There's another (more ice-saving) which believes in making the tea, cooling it, and then chilling it in the refrigerator. You can put a few slices of lemon, some sugar and some mint leaves into this variety while it's hot and strain them out when you pour the liquid over ice in glasses, if you like.

There's at least one rule which holds as well for iced tea as hot, however. That is that tea which is allowed to boil or to steep for a long time becomes bitter. So unless you like your tea that way (some people do!), be sure to pour freshly boiled water over it, let it stand two or three minutes, and then strain it, whether you're going to cool and chill it or not.

Use double the quantity of tea when you're brewing it for icing, to counteract the ice dilution. Two or three teaspoonfuls of tea to a cup of water makes a good strong drink.

And for an unusual drink—between meals, perhaps, rather than with this dinner—try shaking cold tea with egg and sugar (an egg to a cup, sugar to taste) with cracked ice—then serve poured over ice cubes.

Summer meals offer a challenge to the homemaker who wants to keep her family well-nourished with a minimum of effort. This all-in-one plate with high-energy potato chips and a cottage cheese center mound is one answer to flagging appetites. It's a winner in flavor, texture and color contrasts—and for taste appeal, try it!

* * *

Potato Chips Royale.

¼ lb. Smoked Liver Sausage
½ pkg. Cream Cheese (1½ oz.)
½ cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chili sauce
¼ teaspoon of salt

Cottage Cheese—Garden Onions

½ pint creamed cottage cheese
½ cup sliced green onions
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients. Chill before serving. This mixture can be molded in a custard cup to form a mound on lettuce when serving.

Pineapple Wedges—Mint Dressing

Slice, pare and core fresh pineapple. Cut each slice in eight wedges. Marinate with one cup of mint dressing.

Mint Dressing.

½ cup chopped fresh mint
1 cup water
¼ cup sugar
2 tbs. lemon juice

Honey Lemon Juice.

¼ cup lemon juice
2 tbs. sugar
2 tbs. water
2 tbs. honey

Combine all ingredients and serve on fresh berries.

Note: Fruit can be glazed with pastry brush, atomizer or clothes sprinkler. For home use, a pepper shaker filled with sugar and water solution is easy to use and convenient for storage in a refrigerator or on a kitchen shelf.

Barclay On Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

In ordinary circumstances, a trump suit is dangerous if your opponents hold as many as six trumps against you, but comparatively safe if they have five. So, if your partner had bid one major suit twice before then calling the other major — showing at least six cards in the first against only four in the second — you may have a clear choice between a good and a bad trump suit. If you hold two cards in his first suit, your side has eight and the defense only five, whereas if you have three in the second suit, your side has just seven and the opponents six, with one probably holding four.

	♠ A 6 5 ♥ J 6 ♦ K 9 7 ♣ K 10 5 4 2
♠ Q 7 ♥ Q 2 ♦ Q 10 5 4 ♣ 3	N W E S	♠ 10 8 4 3 ♥ K 5 4 ♦ J 8 2 ♣ Q J 6
	♠ K J 9 2 ♥ A 10 9 8 7 3 ♦ A 6 ♣ 3

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

North went to 4-Spades, instead of 4-Hearts, because he had "better support" for spades, as he described it. Actually he had worse, as two cards are sound support for a six-carder whereas three are one too few for a four-carder. North really had two better bids available than 4-Spades, as he had No Trump stoppers in both minors and a No Trump game would have been makeable.

Looking at all the cards, anybody can see how to make game at Spades, but South struggled vainly for down two by average play. He won the diamond 4 lead with the K, finessed the heart J to the Q, got the next diamond with the A, led to the spade A, finessed the spade J to the Q, ruffed the returned diamond with the spade K, took the heart A, ruffed the heart 10 with the spade 6, scored the club K and then had to give up two trump tricks to East. He had lost three tricks to spades plus a heart and a club.

In 4-Hearts, the most ordinary player should have rolled home, losing just one trick each in hearts and clubs and one in spades unless he played the suit badly.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

THE NEIGHBORS ARE DISGUSTED

Who may a mother's love define?
It has a touch that is divine.
—Old Mother Nature.

All the Old Orchard folk knew now what had happened to the babies of Redeye the Vireo and Mrs. Redeye. Jenny Wren had seen to that. You know Jenny is a great gossip. Her tongue had gone so fast that, as Welcome Robin said, it was a wonder that it had not worn out. Jenny had seen a shocking thing, a dreadful thing, a thing that she declared she never would have believed had she not seen it with her own eyes. She had seen a lusty young Cowbird in the Vireo nest throw his foster-sister, the last of four young Vireos, out of the nest onto the ground, where it had been picked up and carried off by Striked Chipmunk, who lived in the old Stone Wall near by.

"He ought to be thrown out of the nest himself," declared Johnny Wren indignantly.

"I hope the Redeyes will have sense enough not to feed him any more," said Welcome Robin.

"If they don't he'll starve to death. He isn't old enough to know how to get his own food," said Tommy Tit the Chickadee.

"Then let him starve. It will serve him right. Nobody wants him around. He is a disgrace to the Old Orchard. That is what he is, a disgrace to the Old Orchard," declared Kitty the Catbird.

"You mean his mother, Sally Sly, who laid the egg he came from in that nest is a disgrace to the Old Orchard," said Winsome Bluebird.

"She is a disgrace to more than just the Old Orchard. She is a disgrace to all who wear feathers," declared Goldie the Oriole.

As for Redeye and Mrs. Redeye they were heartbroken over the loss of all their own babies yet they continued to feed and care for the young Cowbird who now had the nest to himself and of course all the food they brought.

"Perhaps he didn't do what Jenny Wren says he did. Perhaps she just thinks she saw what she says she saw. You know what a gossip Jenny is. It isn't his fault that he is in our nest. It is the fault of that awful mother of his. He didn't have anything to do with it. No sir, he didn't. And if he really did throw our babies out he didn't know any better. We can't let him starve," said Mrs. Redeye, and dropped a billful of food into the greedy open mouth.

"I hope the Redeyes will have sense enough not to feed him any more," said Welcome Robin.

Of course it was the mother love that had so filled her heart. She couldn't end it so suddenly. And after all this was her baby in a way. She had fed and cared for him ever since he had broken out of his shell. And he was still in a measure helpless. She just couldn't believe he was as bad as they said he was. Her heart was still filled with love, mother love, and there was no other baby for her to love.

Perhaps Redeye didn't wholly agree with her, but he was a true and loyal mate, so if she still cared for this young imposter he would do his part. Despite the disgust of the neighbors they continued to feed the young Cowbird. Because he now got all the food he grew faster than ever. He grew so fast that by the time he tried his wings for the first time and left the nest he was bigger than either of his foster-parents, considerably bigger and still growing.

Then for some time the neighbors in the Old Orchard saw a sight that made them more disgusted than ever. The young Cowbird was a spoiled child, and like all spoiled children he took advantage of those who spoiled him. Just as his mother was too lazy to build a nest and care for her babies he was too lazy to look for his own food even when he was big enough to, and could fly as well as the Redeyes. He simply followed them about, running or flying with open mouth to whichever he saw had found something to eat.

"Did you ever see anything so disgusting?" said Welcome Robin.

"I never did," replied Mrs. Welcome. And that was the way all the neighbors felt.

Quick Tricks For Summer Coiffures

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor)

THERE will be times this summer when you will emerge from the lake, river or ocean looking bedraggled and not fit for an evening date.

But of course you'll have one. It seems that whenever hair gets soaked and the plan is to dry it before leaving the beach, it starts to rain and the sun goes down. So you're stuck with wet hair. If this happens, the wisest thing to do is put your hair up in a braid on top, if it is long enough. Otherwise, comb it in small rolls and pin on a few colorful bows.

There may be other days when your beautifully shampooed hair will be windswept and marred by sand, soot and salt water. In that case your best bet is a dry shampoo. Shake some of it out of the container into a little terry mit and rub it through the strands of your hair. Of course you'll have to brush your hair vigorously first to get as much of the dust and grime out of it as possible.

After you've given yourself a good dry shampoo, turn the mit inside out and rub it again through the locks of your hair. This is necessary to remove the greyish tinge that may be left by the powder. Then use a turkish towel to give your scalp and hair a last cleansing.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Al Schacht, the baseball comedian, insisted that his grandfather was major league timber, too. "In fact," says Schacht, "he was the original brain trust of the Wahoo Woodpeckers.

"He always used his head. One day an opposing pitcher dusted him off at the plate. The ball conked Grandpa with a resounding crash, and turned into the most sensational home run on record.

"Yes, sir, it sailed over the right field fence, and won the game. The opposing pitcher committed suicide. They carried Grandpa off on their shoulders."

"What nonsense," some literal-minded female usually exclaims at this point. "How could a man hit a ball over the fence with his head?"

"You didn't know Grandpa," is Schacht's clincher. "He had bats in his belfry."

"A flash just came over the wire," a reporter told editor Ted Thackrey. "There's been a violent earthquake in Pszczyna, Poland." Without looking up from his desk, Thackrey said, "Find out the name of the place before the earthquake."

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—remember that "It Could Happen Here—To YOU!"

Odd, how plentiful meat has become since the price makes its purchase almost prohibitive—maybe that's what is meant by the law of supply and demand.

It is related that the offer of $500 a week to play himself in a motion picture was rejected by Senator Bilbo "with silent contempt"—and anything that silences Bilbo justifies the effort.

Talking Peace, Preparing for War

THE SEEDS of another worldwide armament race among the great powers are being planted now—only a year after the end of the most destructive war in history.

All of the major nations are carrying on extensive experiments with "bigger and better" tools of slaughter. Pilotless airplanes—rockets which are an "improvement" on the horribly destructive German V-2 type—guns which fire streams of molten lead instead of bullets—electrically guided bombs of unimaginable force—these are but a few of the hideous weapons now in the laboratories or the proving grounds.

Topping them all, of course, is the atom bomb. According to authorities, the bombs so far exploded have developed only a microscopic percentage of their potential destructive force. Compared to the bombs of tomorrow, they are like a firecracker beside a stick of TNT. And no scientist believes that atomic bomb construction and development can long remain the secret of any one country. No nation has a monopoly on scientific knowledge and intelligence.

Here is the greatest of all arguments for international understandings, international tolerance, fair international give and take in the interest of a permanent peace. So long as mistrust runs rampant through the world, all the great powers will seek new and even more terrible weapons. And every arms race in history has ended in war.

The issue is a simple one—we will have life or we will have death. We will build a better world or we will destroy it utterly. We will have peace between nations or we will have no nations at all. Today all mankind faces the greatest problem it has ever known.

YMCA Planning for Future

ONE consoling feature, in connection with delays encountered in providing Mansfield with YMCA facilities favorably comparable with a number of other Ohio cities of this size, is the sustained interest of a considerable group of citizens in the betterment of this institution and the extent to which Y work has been carried on in recent years—despite difficulties.

This is brought to public notice by an anticipated change in directing personnel, with a new executive secretary to be chosen, at the suggestion of Ralph B. Chapman, who has been general secretary since 1931, and who, it is announced, is to continue in an associate capacity.

It is assumed, in connection with a five to seven year development program, that a long contemplated new YMCA building will become a reality, and confidence is felt that adequate financing, which earlier proved an insurmountable obstacle, can now be successfully handled.

Work of the Y, for a number of years, has centered so greatly on the devotion of Mr. Chapman to his varied tasks that it is gratifying to learn that his association is to continue through to hoped for completion and occupancy of a new and creditable YMCA building.

Thoughtless Act Injures Girl

THE ORDINARY dangers of bicycling are increased by the thoughtlessness evidenced by such action as reportedly caused the injury of an 11-year-old girl who was thrown from a bicycle on Newman street Thursday afternoon.

According to information given the police, a boy threw a stick into the front wheel of the bicycle on which the little girl was riding, thus causing her to fall on her head on the pavement.

It is quite likely that every neighborhood has at some time or another had unpleasant experience with "smart aleck kids" who lack the home discipline which would make them safe playmates for other children, and as such conduct as that which resulted in injury to this little girl is not uncommon, the interest of citizens is suggested in seeing to it that children who become a menace to others are kept within reasonable bounds, either by their own parents or by juvenile court procedure, if necessary.

Primaries That Reveal Trends

SENATOR KENNETH D. MCKELLAR of Tennessee has weathered what seems to be a dangerous year for senators. Four have been defeated for renomination—Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, George L. Radcliffe of Maryland, Charles C. Gossett of Idaho and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Of these Shipstead and Wheeler had served 24 years and might have been supposed equal to any possible political storm.

Two others withdrew before the final choice—Raymond E. Willis of Indiana, because he saw defeat impending, and Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, another 24-year veteran, who had formidable opposition and may not have thought the fight worth while.

In all cases except in Indiana the displaced senator was more conservative than his successor, either on domestic issues or foreign or both, which may indicate a trend for the fall election.

California Mountain for Sale

WANT to buy a mountain? Mt. Wilson in California, 5,709 feet high and the site of a noted astronomical observatory, is for sale for a mere $425,000. This is not too bad, considering that Mt. Wilson has been operated as a resort area, and the market supply of mountains is scarce. The observatory itself is not included in the offer.

There might be pleasure in owning a mountain, but for real joy and freedom from contact with the outer world nothing quite equals the possession of an island.

A new type of alarm clock is designed to automatically turn on a comedy radio program at 5 a. m.—overlooking the fact that nothing is funny at that time in the morning.

As the Minneapolis Star-Journal explains it: "Inflation is where the sufferer from an inferiority complex feels like a million dollars."

ANOTHER RADIO ACTIVITY VICTIM

Preparations For Peace--and War

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

WHILE the delegates were gathering in Paris for what someone has described as "an Allied conference to make peace among themselves," one of the world's great humanitarian organizations—the Red Cross—was meeting in Geneva and, among other things, discussing preparations for war.

A correspondent writing from the former seat of the League of Nations, where numerous organizations have met this year in the interests of the general welfare, says:

"Genevese are optimistic about their town's future as a center of international goodwill and peace. However, the general hopefulness is somewhat clouded by a shadow emanating from the discussions at the international Red Cross conference, where delegates are unanimously concerned about the threat of a future war, which all think possible."

Delegates are said to have discussed "with great interest" a Bolivian proposal which called for the establishment of security zones for mothers and children in war areas, as far as possible from military objectives and industrial centers, where life and education could go on while their menfolk sought to destroy each other.

A strikingly similar idea comes from 48 members of the Swiss parliament, who have suggested that their government should propose, at forthcoming international conferences, the creation on all continents of "oasis of humanity" consising of whole neutralized countries where people of all nationalities could seek refuge during wars.

The proposal, in the form of a public appeal, says "thinking humanity is more and more convinced that the end of the last war has not brought a true peace" and that "the gap between West and East ever larger."

There is no other way, the statement continues, "to save millions from certain death than to create these oases of humanity where every man would have the same rights whatever his nationality and where his economic situation would be assured."

There immediately arise numerous questions with regard to the possibility of implementing such programs. But it is not their feasibility, or even their desirability, that makes them important.

It is the idea behind them—the situation that causes people to be thinking along these lines: A striking commentary of the times that the Paris conference should be coincidental with the cry from Switzerland:

"Save the women and children."

Marquis Childs

Pendergast Machine Resumes Action.

WASHINGTON — Since he moved into the White House, President Truman's political ventures have not been too happy. The suspicion had begun to grow that he lacked the political touch.

In his victory over Representative Roger C. Slaughter of Missouri, the president had on his side luck and the Pendergast machine. He risked a great deal for a triumph that is largely negative. If Slaughter had won, the Truman opposition both within and without the Democratic party would have crowed mightily.

The way in which the president put the case laid him wide open in the event that Slaughter had been renominated. It was a perfect illustration of his inclination to come out with off-hand answers to important questions.

If he's right, then I'm wrong, said the president when he made clear his opposition to Slaughter at a press conference.

In the light of a Slaughter victory, that would have looked very, very foolish. To begin with, it is such an over-simplification to be essentially untrue.

Roger Slaughter, as a symbol, might well be taken as a text from the political confusion of the time in which we live. The key to Slaughter's importance lay in his appointment to the all-powerful rules committee of the house.

In that key position, Slaughter made himself the representative of big business, although a member of the majority party, elected by Democratic votes. Slaughter in committee helped to stop measure after measure sought by the leader of his party. In other words, he helped to sabotage the reform program of his own party.

An ironic commentary on all this is the effort to build Slaughter up into the figure of a noble Conservative. Several national magazines have taken part in that effort. If to confuse party lines, to deny party responsibility and to say no to everything makes a man a Conservative, then Slaughter qualifies.

The reasons for the victory of Enos A. Axtell, the president's candidate, are not hard to find. It means above all, that the Pendergast machine, which suffered severely at the time of the late "Boss" Tom Pendergast's downfall, is stronger than almost anyone suspected.

How much the president influenced the outcome, no one can say. He certainly made it plain to James Pendergast, nephew and heir of Boss Tom, that a lot turned on the outcome.

Most Missourians still find it difficult to realize that Harry Truman is president of the United States. They remember back to that other primary, only 12 years ago, when for the first time Truman stepped timidly out onto the national stage as a spear carrier in the Roosevelt grand opera. He was boss Tom's choice for the senate and, at the proper time on election night, Boss Tom produced the votes to overcome the lead piled up by his chief opponent, Representative John J. Cochran, in St. Louis.

Another factor in Axtell's victory was the PAC. With a margin of only 2300 votes over Slaughter, Axtell may owe the outcome to the active support of organized labor almost as much as to the Pendergast machine.

If he is elected in the fall, Axtell can be counted on to vote with his party. That is the extent of the gain from the president's point of view. Measured against the political necessities of the moment, it looks pretty small.

Dave Boone Says:

ROGER C SLAUGHTER, in Missouri, was a victim of about everything but radioactivity. It took the CIO Political Action Committee, the old Pendergast machine and a presidential denunciation to beat him.

One Pendergast district reported 280 votes for its candidate and not one for Slaughter and that just gives you an idea.

But I guess the primaries, the peace conference and even the Hamiltonian are eclipsed just now by the question of whether Mickey Owen is to be pardoned and put back on the Brooklyn Dodgers' roster.

Mickey fled his league to play Mexican baseball but is back, repentant and eager for reinstatement. If he ain't reinstated, it may cost Brooklyn the pennant. If he is reinstated, it will mean a war between the United States and Latin America.

A-Bomb and Earthquakes.

The idea that the A-bomb explosion on the floor of Bikini atoll may have started vibration through the solid Earth which touched off delicately balanced structures in the Caribbean area, already under terrific pressure, may not be so fantastic as at first appears.

Twenty-four hours after the San Francisco earthquake, in 1906, some nerve-shaking earth tremors were felt 500 miles distant, in the southern part of the state.

How far a gigantic A-bomb blow on solid material may travel and prove to be the trigger-touch setting off another destructive disturbance is a question for seismographers to answer, and for those to ponder who contemplate the use of atom bombs in war.—Detroit News.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Gains In Industrial Production Brighten Reconversion Outlook

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE nation's intricate production, beginning to mesh after the doldrums of reconversion, strikes and uncertainty over price controls, surged nearer the mass production levels Americans and the world had grown to expect.

In June, reported the Civilian Production Administration, the nation's industrial output rose to a new postwar high. In July it may have equalled prewar records. August totals should go higher. In January federal budget officials estimated the national income at $140,000,000,000 for the current fiscal year, which started July 1. Last week statisticians revised their estimate to $165,000,000,000.

During the first half of 1946, consumers were saving at a rate of $10,800,000,000 annually more than they were spending. The public wants to buy long-needed goods and an alert business wants to invest, expand and build new plants to give it to them.

If business and consumers spend more, inflationary pressures will increase, economists say, because goods and materials are still scarce and the demand would send prices up.

Federal Moratorium.

The president last week ordered federal departments and agencies to cut expenses to a minimum. Next day, Reconversion Director John R. Steelman ordered a moratorium until Oct. 1 on all big, new federal construction contracts. The goal is to trim $700,000,000 from the federal public works program and prevent government competition with business for scarce materials.

In his new budget estimate for the current fiscal year, the president said: "In view of the action congress has taken on price controls, I must repeat—with added emphasis—my recommendation of last January that no tax reduction be made until the inflationary situation has passed."

New Budget Estimate.

The new estimate placed federal government expenses for the coming year at $41,500,000,000, up five and one-half billion from the January figures but computed income from taxes and revenue at $39,600,000,000, an increase of $8,100,000,000 over January predictions.

At Home

Bullets and Ballots.

Constitutional government returned to Athens, Tenn., last week when a local court declared valid the election of five war veterans to McMinn county offices after an election day gun battle in which a score were injured led to a five-day rule by vigilantes.

Supporters of the non-partisan ex-servicemen's ticket objected to ballot-counting methods of the decade-old Democratic machine of State Senator Paul Cantrell and defied more than 100 deputies "imported" by Sheriff Pat Mansfield to police the polls. The ex-GIs finally ran the deputies out of town after a six-hour gun battle in which they exploded demolition charges against the courthouse jail in which the deputies had holed up.

The veterans, expecting a counterattack in force by Cantrell men, set up roadblocks around the town, patrolled streets with rifles. The attack never came.

The President Takes a Hand.

Missouri's Fifth district voters gave the president a pat on the back by nominating Enos A. Axtell as Democratic candidate for congress and turning thumbs down on Rep. Roger C. Slaughter, an avowed critic of the White House domestic program.

The national spotlight was focused on this local election in a corner of the president's home state after Mr. Truman said flatly that if Slaughter was right in his political thinking then he, the president, was wrong.

Once before Mr. Truman tried to influence a local electorate. He endorsed Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for renomination, but the victor was Lief Ericson. President Roosevelt attempted a widespread purge in 1938 but that effort proved abortive in all except one case.

Emergency Housing.

In Binghamton, N. Y., 10 homeless war veterans, three wives and a three-year-old boy tented on the Broome county courthouse lawn. The ex-GI's, who bought and borrowed tents for the protest bivouac, say they would stay put until "something is done about the housing shortage." A restaurant is furnishing free coffee and they have been granted use of sanitary facilities in the courthouse jail.

Abroad

Poison Warfare.

Deadly radioactive rays pour from the still "hot" Bikini target ships more than two weeks after the underwater blast.

Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, Operation Crossroads commander, after boarding the Prinz Eugen, Nazi cruiser on the outer fringe of the target fleet, tried to get close to the wreck of the Independence. As the launch of his inspection party inched toward the carrier hull, the Geiger Counter needle (recording the degree of radioactivity) swung clear across the dial.

"This," said Blandy, "is a form of poison warfare."

The atomic bomb as used at Hiroshima and Nagasaki was not a poison attack, the admiral said. While some deaths occurred from direct radiation at the instant of explosion, residual activity was not evidenced. This is in sharp contrast with Bikini's underwater blast where all exteriors of ships were made lethal by contaminated sea water and by an artificial rain.

Tension In Palestine.

Each day at 3 a. m., cannons boom throughout the Holy Land. They signal the Fast of Ramadhan, one of the most sacred Moslem rituals, which lasts 30 days. Firing of the guns in traditional but in the present crisis each day's salvoes accentuate the state of Arab-Jewish jitters. Tension mounted steadily both within and without Palestine.

In Paris, the Jewish Agency Executive flatly rejected the British-American cabinet committee's proposal to divide Palestine into four provinces—one Arab, one Jewish and two central government zones. In London, Prime Minister Attlee seemed ready to submit the Palestine problem to the United Nations if President Truman rejected the semi-partition plan.

Arab spokesmen have denounced the plan but the Arab League has not taken official action.

In Jerusalem, Irgun Zvai Leumi, militant Jewish underground organization which assumed responsibility for the King David Hotel bombing in which 91 persons died, threatened "new and heavy blows against our British enemies."

Incidents In China.

The American role as peacemaker between China's warring factions became more difficult last week as incidents in the undeclared civil war continued to pile up ominously. Gen. George C. Marshall, Presidential envoy, and John Leighton Stuart, new ambassador to China, conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Premier T. V. Soong in the summer capital of Kuling.

Meanwhile in Shanghai, Adm. Charles M. Cooke, jr., commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, declared that marines would stay in China at their present strength of 22,000 to 23,000 and will "shoot back" if attacked.

The state department in Washington denied any intention of withdrawing marine garrisons from China and branded as "absolutely not true" Nanking newspaper reports that President Truman had ordered Gen. Marshall to plan evacuation of all American military personnel to avoid further incidents such as the one on July 29 when Chinese Communists ambushed a motor convoy, and killed four marines, wounding 11.

Farmer's Diary: "Facts of Life."

THE LITTLE girl, not more than four, had knitting needles and blue yarn. I said, "Making a cap for your doll?"

"No—" she stuck her tongue between her teeth as she captured a stitch that had slipped, then looked up at me with clear blue eyes wide. "It's a hood for my new baby brother. Mother's going to help me finish it."

"Did your mother tell you there would be a new brother?" I said.

"Yes, certainly. Maybe for Christmas, maybe not till New Year's. Daddy said it'd be the newest model, but he thinks it'll be a girl, 'stead of a boy."

"And which do you want most?" I wondered.

"Twins'd be fine," she giggled. "We're going to keep it a secret awhile yet. So don't tell. . . ."

That was a year ago. The baby came—a boy—the day after New Year's. His sister greeted him by name, four hours after his birth. There was no jealousy, no "broken nose"—only a united family sharing a great happiness.

It seems to me these modern mothers have far more good sense than was common in my boyhood. Then, the so-called "facts of life" were shamefully and ashamedly treated. People continued, however, to get born . . . and to wonder and to ask questions about the miracle of their birth.

The ideal method for children to become informed about fundamental physiology may differ, in different cases. But it seems to me that a mother who misses the chance to answer her own child's first trustful questions has missed something precious that cannot be regained. For a child's mind unfolds so gradually, so naturally, and so wholesomely, if left to itself, that the birth of another child is, to it, as normal as the flowering of a plant, or the sprouting of a seed in the spring.

Children return, again and again, to an honest confidante with new questions. It is only human and natural to need to learn and assimilate one or two truths at a time. What seems to me pitiful and unfair is to tell children lies until the adolescent age, and then unload upon them—perhaps by necessity, or even from the lips of a stranger—the whole burden of responsibility for reproducing the race.

Let's be honest with boys and girls, from the start. It is the right way as well as the best policy . . . and it has rich compensations in young respect and companionship.

A Good Report On Ice Cream.

DOCTORS grow tired of warning, cautioning, deploring and, in general playing the bugbear. It's necessary but it isn't too much fun, so today it's nice to be able to tell you, for a change, how very good for you one of America's most popular dishes turns out to be.

Yes, we're talking about ice cream. Everybody loves it but few know there are many better reason's for eating it than simply because it tastes good. Many people consider it a luxury food and think of it only as an attractive dessert or a pleasant addition to teas and other social occasions, without ever recognizing its value as a source of proteins, fats, sugars, minerals and vitamins.

Vitamin Content.

Dr. Arthur D. Holmes and his co-workers of Massachusetts, carried out some studies to determine the vitamin content of ice cream. Three differently flavored ice creams were assayed to determine the amounts of carotene, riboflavin and ascorbic acid present in them.

Carotene is a substance which is changed into vitamin A in the body. Riboflavin is the name for vitamin B-2 and ascorbic acid is vitamin C.

It was found that the ice creams were a much richer source of carotene than is whole milk. The ice creams did not have as much carotene as such properly prepared vegetables as beet tops, sweet potatoes and carrots have.

Sold By Volume.

However, ice cream is usually sold on the basis of volume and because there is some air incorporated in the ice cream, on this basis it contains less riboflavin than does an equal volume of milk.

The ice cream also contained about the same quantity of riboflavin or even a little more than did eggs. The ice cream did not contain any ascorbic acid or vitamin C. This is probably due to the fact that such vitamin C as is present in ice cream is lost by combination with the air.

Thus, it would appear that ice cream is an excellent source of carotene and riboflavin in the diet, and in addition, it supplies other food element such as proteins, calcium and phosphorus, as well as sugar. All of these things are essential in the well-balanced diet. Ice cream is a tasty food. It is also a good food and one which can contribute very pleasantly to the balancing of the diet.

Watching Britain's Peaceful Revolution.

Walter Lippmann is on vacation for several weeks. His column will be resumed upon his return.

LONDON—The first thing to understand about Britain under the Labor party is that a great social revolution has occurred here, peacefully but irrevocably, for good or ill. It seems silly to have to make such a statement nearly a year after the British election, but the all-important fact has been obscured in American eyes.

It is noticed, for example, that the permanent under secretary of Ernest Bevin's foreign office is the intelligent, cynical and strikingly non-proletarian Sir Orme Sargent. But it is not understood that Sir Orme Sargent has been retained simply because he has the reputation of being the best diplomatic technician since the distant days of Sir Eyre Crowe.

That is the advantage of a peaceful revolution. Instead of hustling them off to the guillotine, you can make use of the best brains of the old order to help build the new.

Britain did it before, at the time of the reform bill of 1832, which transferred the power from the great land owners to the middle class. The election of the Labor government last year was a comparable but a much bigger and more radical event, transferring the power from the middle class to the mass of the people.

A peaceful revolution is bound to be duller than a bloody one and there is no doubt of the peaceful character of the revolution in Britain. Professor Harold Laski, the stormy petrel of the British Labor party, used to predict that the British governing class would never accept socialism without violence. But he now cheerfully admits that he was wrong.

He could hardly do otherwise, when Viscount Cranborne, the wise conservative leader of the house of lords, genially conspires with the government chieftain, Lord Addison, to insure passage of the Labor party measures without crippling amendments.

British Conservatives can be very bitter against the Labor party. They are most bitter against the Labor party's measures to nationalize basic industries, which are intended to make the Socialist Revolution permanent by putting the basic economic power in the hands of the state. Yet their bitterness does not make them forget the need to make the machine of government work.

Thus no one is surprised that more than half of the members of the board, chosen to run the nationalized coal industry, are business administrators and technicians who probably voted against

Despite the absence of any taint of blood in the British revolution, political observation is exciting in Britain today, and especially so to anyone who has watched the progressive bankruptcy of the American Left since the death of Franklin Roosevelt.

There are big men at the head of the new British government. Herbert Morrison, who heads up the whole domestic economy, and Ernest Bevin, who directs the foreign and imperial policy, have always been known to be big men.

Clement Attlee, although he remains dim as a political figure, is emerging as a powerful head of government and coordinator. Younger leaders like Aneurin Bevin, who directs the vast British program of health and social welfare, more far-reaching than anything we have dreamed of, and John Strachey, who has the difficult assignment at the food ministry, are getting the opportunity to make their mark.

And the lower ranks of the Labor party are crowded with still more youthful men of promise, who are beginning to gain reputations, like Attlee's former economic advisor, Douglas Jay, and Bevin's assistant, Hector MacNeil.

Furthermore, the Labor party has need of big men to execute its immense program. The new cradle-to-grave Social Security Bill and the National Health Bill socializing medicine would be adequate achievements for most governments.

But establishing a minimum of well-being for every individual is only one half of the Labor program. The other half comprises the long series of equally important measures, taking control of credit, investment and the basic industries. These are intended to guide the British economy towards a continuously rising productivity.

Having established a minimum of well-being for each member of the society, it is also hoped to increase the well-being of the society as a whole.

This does not mean that the experiment will surely work, or needs to be attempted in the much richer United States. The experiment is needful in Britain because, at this moment, Britain is poor. And it may not work for that very reason, since it is difficult to do a big job on a narrow margin.

Nevertheless, the American liberals, who proclaim their belief in civil liberties yet hanker after the social welfare and economic planning of the Soviet Union, would do well to study the British experiment. The British Labor party is doing what they want to see done, and doing it without the sacrifice of any essential freedom.

They might particularly examine the remarkable series of votes by which British working men rejected the Communist party. In certain British trade unions, such as the coal miners and the compositors, the Communists and their sympathizers had made considerable headway in the bad years between wars. The leaders advocated merger of the Communists with the Labor party.

But when the issue was referred to the rank and file before the annual party conference, the rank and file voted the other way by huge majorities. The compositors, for example, were eight to one against merger although their executive board was thirty-two to thirty-one in favor.

An American observer cannot help but suspect that part of the success of the Labor party to date arises from the fact that British trades unions are thoroughly democratic and thoroughly English. It is easier for men of all classes to accept a peaceful revolution when these truths are in everyone's mind.

Jesus and Home Relationships — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:12; Mat. 7:9-12; Mark 7:6-13; Luke 2:41-52; Eph. 6:1-4; Hebrews 12:7-11.

If ye, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him?

Jesus told the Pharisees, "Full well ye reject the commandments of God, that ye may keep your own tradition. For Moses said, 'Honor thy father and thy mother.'"

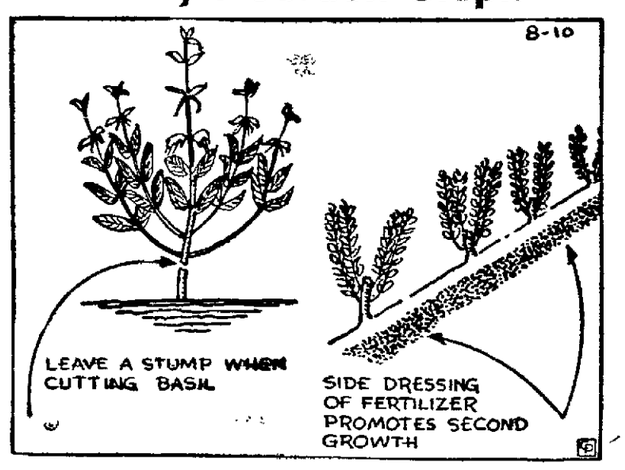
After Jesus' adventure in the temple in Jerusalem, He went down to Nazareth with His parents, and was subject unto them, and increased in stature and in wisdom.

"Children obey your parents in the Lord; for this is right. Honor they father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise."
MEMORY VERSE—Exodus 20:12.

Returns To City

Rev. Roland L. Showalter, formerly pastor of the Lincoln Heights Church of the Brethren, will be guest speaker there tomorrow after a year's absence during which he has become pastor of a Presbyterian church in New York.

Today's Garden-Graph



Time to Gather Basil Leaves for Kitchen Use

You are fortunate if you have sweet basil or any other kitchen herbs growing in your garden, since spices still are listed among the shortage items.

Basil, the royal herb, has long been used to flavor soups, stews, beans, pickles, salad dressings and some kinds of sausage. And many foods today, especially meats, sadly need extra flavoring to make them really palatable.

Sweet basil is an annual herb and grows easily from seed into a plant, 18 inches to two feet high. It branches profusely, forming a compact globular bush.

The flowers come at the end of July and in August and the leaves should not be cut in quantities for drying purposes until the flowers begin to open. When cutting basil leave a stump a few inches above ground, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

If the basil stumps are given a side dressing of fertilizer, as illustrated, they will develop a second crop of leaves. The leaves taste of licorice and spice when fresh, and when dried there is a lemon-like tang to their fragrance, also a suspicion of anise.

If desired roots of sweet basil can be potted at the end of the summer season and taken indoors for a winter's supply of fresh leaves from this useful herb.

While the fresh green leaves of many herbs, including basil, are gathered for use during midsummer, other herbs, of which the seeds are used, are gathered as soon as they ripen. These include the seeds of cumin, dill, fennel, coriander, caraway and anise.

Two More Mansfield Clubs Win In District Tournament

Dodgers Out to Sweep Entire Season Series

Have Won 11 Straight From Phils; Cards Win to Stay Two Games Behind.

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer.

Never in the history of major league baseball has one team swept an entire season's series from another, but today the National league leading Brooklyn Dodgers are halfway towards accomplishing this unprecedented feat.

In 11 skirmishes with the seventh place Philadelphia Phils, the Flatbush flock has yet to lose. They gained their 11th straight last night in Philadelphia by the narrowest of margins, 1-0.

Last night's triumph enabled the pace-setters to maintain their two-game margin over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals who took the measure of the Reds 5-2 in Cincinnati.

The Cards and Reds met under the lights as did all the other big league clubs, making it the first time in history a full schedule was played under the lamps.

Kirby Higbe turned in the Brooklyn shutout, getting the nod over Oscar Judd when Pete Reiser singled home Pee Wee Reese in the eighth inning after the latter had doubled.

Whitey Kurowski paced a 16-hit St. Louis attack with a home run, double and two singles and drove in three mates to help Howie Pollet notch his 13th victory of the season, tops for senior circuit hurlers.

* * *

The American league leading Boston Red Sox increased their margin over the New York Yankees to 14 games—largest of the season—when they edged out the Bronxites 4-3 at Yankee stadium.

* * *

The Tigers, paced by Outfielder Dick Wakefield, who got five for five including a home run, moved to within a game of second place by shading the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Washington's Senators handed the Philadelphia Athletics their sixth loss in a row as Southpaw Mickey Haefner outdueled Lum Harris 2-1 for his 10th victory. Held off the bases for the first five and last two innings, the Cleveland Indians exploded for five runs in the sixth on five consecutive hits and three walks to beat the St. Louis Browns 5-4.

Even Frank E. McKinney, new Pittsburgh Pirates' president, couldn't bring luck to his Bucs as they were trampled by the Cubs 9-3 at Forbes field.

The Boston Braves boosted their season mark to an even .500 with a 51-51 record as Warren Spahn held the New York Giants to seven hits to give the Braves a 5-3 victory at Boston. It was Boston's eighth win in its last 11 games.

Hager Again Under Par

Al Hager of Pebble Beach had to fire a one-under par 35 to defeat Bob Moorhead of Olympia Fields in the Twilight golf league at Westbrook Country club last evening. Moorhead turned in a fine 38.

Vic Salter took runner-up honors with a 37 while Carl Wiseman came through with a 38.

Pebble Beach still holds a comfortable margin over Canterbury.

Snead Scores Hole-in-One

WINNIPEG —(AP)— Slamming Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., buoyed by his first hole-in-one in tournament play, was in the front row grabbing for the $2,000 first prize money in the Canadian Golfers' association open tournament today at the Niakwa Golf and Country club.

The British Open champion held a two-stroke lead with a 54-hole score of 211 as the field entered the final round of competition. Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the other pre-tournament choice, and Dick Metz of Arkansas, were next in line with 213.

Snead forged to the front yesterday by firing the third best round of the tournament so far, a four-under-par 68 that included a sensational hole-in-one on the 245-yard par three 15th. That score and ace and Hogan's round of 69 split the tournament wide open as the halfway mark pacesetters Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, blew sky high.

Marion Motley Joins Browns

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—The Cleveland Browns of the All-America football conference added another Negro today to their list of candidates Marion Motley, 225-pound fullback who played under Coach Paul Brown at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Motley, who sparked the Navy team to its 39 to 7 victory over Notre Dame last year made a surprise entrance yesterday and immediately was given a uniform and took part in the club's workout.

AA Leaders Both Lose

(By Associated Press)

Indianapolis and Louisville both were defeated last night to maintain their deadlock for the American association lead.

Kansas City, celebrating the return of Manager Bill Meyer after a five-weeks' absence because of illness, defeated the Indians 8-3. The Indians were charged with six errors, and of six Kansas City runs in the first five innings off Rex Cecil only three were earned.

* * *

Milwaukee belted Louisville 10-7 as Lefty Ewald Pyle won his ninth consecutive victory. Pyle fanned nine batters and collected three hits, two of which aided in giving him a 9-8 edge at the end of the third. It was his 13th win of the season against five defeats.

* * *

Paul Lemner, getting five for five, including a triple and double, led the Toledo Mudhens to a 10-6 decision over St. Paul.

Scoring 10 runs on 11 hits in the sixth and seventh innings, the surprising Columbus Redbirds trounced Minneapolis 11-2 to sweep a four-game series. Bob Rhawn, Tommy Nelson, and Bill Howerton totalled up ten of the Birds' 15 blows. Howerton included a home run, the ninth for Columbus in the series.

Mickey Owen Optimistic

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Certainly barred from American organized baseball this season, repentant Mickey Owen still was optimistic today he would escape the official five-year suspension placed against him when he bolted to Mexico.

The former Brooklyn catcher, after a conference in baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler's office, said he had received "neither encouragement nor discouragement" and that he still had "hope that I can be reinstated."

* * *

Owen was told, however, by Harold (Muddy) Ruel, Chandler's special assistant, and Walter Mulbry, the commissioner's secretary, that baseball laws prohibit reinstatement of an ineligible player between Aug. 1 and Oct. 31.

* * *

Under American baseball laws, the 30-year-old player said he was informed, he has the right to appeal to President Ford Frick of the National league for reinstatement. He said he could do so immediately by letter.

Ruel said the next step would be for Frick to certify the request to Chandler's office.

Salesbooks In Shutout Win

SHELBY—The Shelby Salesbook company defeated the CIO-Steelworkers' Union, 6 to 0 Friday night in a postponed Shelby Softball league game on the Waterworks diamond.

Ralph Hart Salesbook pitcher, was credited with the shut-out. He gave four hits. Cain, CIO pitcher, gave three hits.

The Salesbook is tied with Laubie's Shell filling station for second place in the second half race. The Eagles remain in the lead with five wins out of six games.

No games will be played in the league over the week-end. The Laubie nine will play the Legion Monday night at 6 p. m.

Quick Gets Shot At Stranahan

DULUTH, Minn.—(AP)—A chunky, confident former electrician's mate in the Navy, who doctors once said never would play golf again, today had what he had been seeking since his discharge, a formal tournament golf match with Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Both Stranahan and Smiley Quick, of Inglewood, Calif., the man who wouldn't take the doctor's word as final won their upper bracket, quarter finals matches yesterday by small margins in the Western Amateur tournament. They faced each other today for the right to enter the finals Sunday.

ALL-STAR GAME

CHICAGO—(AP)—Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach" who hated to lose in his playing days will send the West team after its first triumph over the East coached by Honus (Hans) Wagner in the third annual All-American boys' baseball game before an expected 20,000 fans at Wrigley field today.

Action From Junior Olympic Meet

Nearly 200 spectators were on hand last night to watch the city's young track stars compete for a place on the team that will represent Mansfield in the national junior olympics at Cleveland Aug. 24.

Several exceptionally fine times were turned in by the thinclads who have been working out three nights a week for the past month.

Harry Mehock will now take the boys and work them still harder as he moulds the boys into a strong team for the big Cleveland show.

Competition in the national meet will come from the cream of the midwest. Mehock is confident that the Mansfield team—which will be sponsored in the nationals by the News-Journal—will bring home some honors.

Last night the boys were permitted to compete in as many events as they desired. For the nationals, however, a boy may enter only one event.

The reason behind this is to give as many boys as possible a chance to share in the limelight.

Mehock intends to have full teams in all three divisions.

Here are the results of last night's meet:

OSL Game Goes 3½ Hours

(By Associated Press)

The Middletown Reds pounded out a score of hits at Lima Friday night and still nearly lost a three-hour, 40-minute Ohio State league struggle.

Three Middletown pitchers kept Lima in the running with 16 walks and three hit batsmen. In the ninth, the Terriers scored twice to tie the score with the bases filled and no one out, but a double play and long fly sent the game through a scoreless 10th and 11th frame before two 12th-inning runs won for Middletown 14-12.

* * *

The Zanesville Dodgers divided a doubleheader with Dayton. Jim Parton hurled a four-hit 5-1 victory in the opener; but six errors in the nightcap helped visiting Dayton to a 4-2 victory.

At Newark, Springfield lost 6-5 in the 10th inning. The triumph ran Newark's home-game winning string to eight games.

Richmond trailed all the way and lost 7-6 at Marion to slip out of third place.

Shell Oil, Cabs Get Wins at Marion

Upper Sandusky Nine Blanks Laubie's of Shelby; 4-0; 2 Local Teams Play Sunday.

MARION—Three more good games were on tap last night as the sixth district softball tournament continued under the lights at Smitty's park.

Two Mansfield nines came through with wins although one of them had to go into the books as a forfeit.

Although held to two hits, Shell Oil came through with a 3-0 victory over Smith and Wilson of Upper Sandusky.

Safety Cabs are still in the running with a forfeit win over the Ashland Independents.

As the regulation seven-inning contest came to a close with the score tied at 2-2, a hard rain came and flooded the d[illegible]nd, making further play impossible.

The two teams were immediately scheduled to meet again Sunday night at 7 o'clock but the Ashland club can't play at that time so the game had to be forfeited to the Cabs.

In the middle game played last night the Carey Merchants turned in a 5-0 win over Laubie's Service Station of Shelby.

Bob Regula set Upper Sandusky down with two singles and was given good support afield. Foster scored the Oils first tally in the first frame and then Schill and Dent crossed the plate in the fourth.

* * *

Kenny Windsor hurled three-hit ball for the Cabs against Ashland with a triple in the last of the seventh by Dunlap chasing over the tying run.

* * *

Several sparkling fielding plays have been turned in during the 12 tournament tilts with Bob Parr's falling catch of a foul ball near the fence being just about tops.

Bob Boyd doubled home the Cabs' two runs in the second inning with Challain and McKee scoring.

Tomorrow night Strine's Gulf Station of Ashland plays Shell Oil in the first game at 8 o'clock while Klein Furs of Mansfield tangles with the Carey Merchants in the 9 o'clock contest.

Monday night the Sycamore Hatchery club plays Safety Cabs at 8 o'clock and Post 72 faces Universal Cooler of Marion.

Indian's Bats Go To Work

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The explosion that rocked Sportsman's park and the St. Louis Browns wasn't from any of Bill Veeck's pyrotechnics—it was straight from the bats of the Indians, who today had another one-run victory in the books.

The Tribe pounded across all its runs in the sixth inning last night as Southpaw Charley Gassaway scored his first triumph for Cleveland, 5 to 4, in the opener of a four-game series.

Denny Galehouse retired 15 Cleveland batters in succession. Then Ken Keltner, leading off in the sixth, broke the spell with a single to open a sustained attack.

The Indians face the Browns under the lights again tonight, and veteran Mel Harder was Boudreau's choice for the Tribe's starter.

Mrs. Lockman, known to her small town neighbors as a "Good Samaritan," was arrested earlier this week for the attempted poisoning of Mrs. McConnell, invalid wife of Forrest McConnell, 60, a hardware dealer for whom Mrs. Lockman worked as a housekeeper

Mrs. McConnell is in a hospital at Madison, Ind., where her condition has been described as "satisfactory."

Mrs. Lockman was formally charged with attempted poisoning after Dr. R. N. Harger, toxicologist at Indiana University, said tests indicated the presence of a poison chemical in Mrs. McConnell's food.

Obfuscation, Says Truman

that never seem to balance.

Having delivered his etymological blooper ball, Brown sat back to watch the fun. But Mr. Truman was equal to the challenge. He countered in kind

Mr. Brown, the president told his news conference, was simply attempting obfuscation. Furthermore, Mr. Truman said, the word used by Brown was a $40 Republican word which was an attempt to add to the obfuscation of all of Brown's other statements.

By now, the president was handling the word as if he owned it. He said no Democrat would have any truck with a word like ingannation. But he thought it was perfectly all right to use the word obfuscation.

A baffled reporter wanted to know what obfuscation meant. Mr Truman said this was a Democratic word meaning to mix up. Webster's new international dictionary says it means to confuse or bewilder

But, getting back to the congressional campaign, it ought to be an armigerous battle.

Union Plans Headquarters

Local 711, UERMWA, bargaining agent for some 4,000 employes of the Westinghouse plant here, had filed incorporation papers for the UERMWA Local 711 Home association in Columbus today, the International News Service reported.

Incorporators were Joseph Hawkins, Thomas Flood and Martin Frank, officers of the union. It was incorporated as a non-profit organization.

Hawkins said the purpose of the new organization is to purchase a site and build a headquarters for the union.

"The deal for the site has not been closed as yet. But we hope it will be within a few weeks. Construction of an office and meeting hall probably won't take place for a couple of years yet," Hawkins said.

He did not reveal the site of the proposed hall.

Big Crops to Ease Grain Restrictions

Jack Lait — On Broadway

ONE OF THE old Chicago boys, now doing the best he can in New York, sidled up to me and in a hoarse whisper from the near side of his mouth, said: "Words around that Al is due any hour." Al, of course, could be no one but Capone.

His presence would be nothing to start a panic. Capone has many legitimate business interests. Though he muscled in on them in his violent days, they are respectable enterprises and he has the stock socked away.

Despite reports that the remnants of his hoodlum empire are active again in Chicago, I don't think Scarface is back in person running the rackets. Alcatraz took most of him out of him; he is sick, well off, has a growing son whom he idolizes, and can bask in his Florida hacienda on a handsome income.

Capone, always ruthless and bold, was also a businessman. His real estate and auditing and even artillery departments were run with executive efficiency. I have read from time to time that Jack Guzick was his treasurer. If so, that happened after my happy Chicago days. When I knew Jack, he was a chiseling, short-changing waiter in a speakeasy run by his brother, Harry, who was a fat little brothel operator as well.

It was my business to know such people. They were "copy."

* * *

When I began to specialize in underworld stories, my bride was scared. She thought these desperate criminals would kill me for "exposing" them. In truth, they loved it—kept scrapbooks like ham actors and treasured their "notices." I got many an exclusive inside tale because the bad babies were hot to see their names in print. It built them up with their own kind and it fed their distorted egos.

"Duffy the Goat" had done a stretch in Michigan City, Ind., for murder. He returned to his haunts, went to the Cadillac (Hotel) barbershop, where he had left his gun before he went away.

The place had changed hands. He got shaved then opened the cash register, and there, sure enough, was his pearl-handled gat. He took it and stuck up the barber. Then he went across the street to a saloon run by a bird named Jimmy Leather, as tough as his name. He didn't know Duff, who ordered a drink, remarked that it was a cozy place—he thought Leather needed a partner—well, he had one. The Goat took his coat off, walked behind the bar, moved the "rod" into his hip-pocket.

Next day, painters put "Duffy & Leathers" on the window—and so it remained, until the Goat killed a second-class pug up stairs over a red-headed madam named Frisco Kate.

The Goat was a hound for publicity. He used to lie in wait for me in front of the Hearst Building, fall in step, complain I had been neglecting him. I told him there was nothing to write—he had been uninteresting quiescent, or words to that effect.

That night, a touring-car (remember?) swung through one of the "levee" streets. There was a blast through its mica curtain. "Terry" Teranova, a gambler, was killed—a mystery.

Next day the Goat phoned me—"You can say I done that," he said. "I won't get in no trouble. I fixed an airtight alibi."

I published that Duffy was "suspected." He was picked up by the dicks. He had his alibi, and it stuck—

He had witnesses to prove that he had spent the whole evening in dalliance with a lady—who happened to be the wife of the man who was riddled!

Another keen publicity-hound was "Big Jim" Colosimo, really the father and founder of modern racketeering, a smart cookie who foresaw the gigantic possibilities of Prohibition, and who imported Capone (then Al Brown) from Brooklyn.

Colosimo had a cafe (still operating) which was his headquarters, blind and stage. Impeccably dressed in swallow-tail and striped trousers, he hosted it and met the best as well as the lowest people. He had a long, sordid record in vice, blackmail and corruption, intelligent, and a connoisseur of fine music.

When Jim chucked over his wife, Victoria, who had come with him from Sicily and worked with him in his early days of very low-down, livelihood, it was to marry Dale Winter, a beautiful young choir singer.

On his honeymoon in West Baden, Ind., he had himself and his bride photographed in varied happy poses and sent the pictures to all the Chicago papers.

But there was less romantic material. I, who was in his place seven nights a week, would write stories tying him in with the growing gangsterism which was beginning that era of blood and violence which later gave Chicago a wry reputation around the world. I bluntly named Colosimo as the prime mover behind the criminal structure. But I was his favorite reporter.

He had a political drag that made him virtually immune. But he became so notorious, people came long distances just to see what his phenomenon looked like. He ate that up.

I was with him until 2 a. m., the morning he was assassinated in his office in that cafe, before noon. The first edition had been brought in, and there was my yarn on Page 1—with his picture.

There had been more gang killings. I wrote that the Colosimo mob had rubbed out some intruders who "strayed over the barriers of their own territory"—which had been fixed by formal treaty in a meeting of gang leaders representing the several sections of the city—a "peace conference" in a leading "Loop" hotel.

Jim read it, laid down the paper, looked up at me.

"I'm surprised at you," he said. "Those bums didn't stray over the barriers; they were a dozen blocks inside. They weren't knocked off. They committed suicide.

"Now, my good friend, don't quote me, but you can say that the West Siders and North Siders had better stay out of my South Side, or there will be some more fancy funerals.

"And, besides, that's not a good photo of me. profiles never present my face to best advantage.

"A few come here to get a look at me. But millions get their impressions only from the newspapers. This picture makes me out—well, fierce. And you know, Jack, I'm not that. Why, Dale wouldn't have had me if I looked like that.

"Now, I just had a full-face taken. I'll give it to you. You can run it with your next story—you know, about more fancy funerals."

I ran it—with the story of his own fancy funeral.

BUCHAREST—(AP)—Every evening between 7 and 9 o'clock, carefree mass of variegated humanity jostles and worms its way up and down the Calea Victoriei and the Bulevardul Elizabeta in Bucharest's shopping and theater center.

Maidens sway past in gaily colored frocks, officers jingle their spurs and beaus twirl their trim, pointed moustaches. When the moon comes out over the famous Military Casino Square, amateur star gazers, for a nickel, can look to their heart's content at the moon and starry sky. Romance is to be had for nothing and thousands relax from daily cares.

One day those responsible for the political education of the masses thought it should be otherwise. Probably they said some of this carefree energy should be harnessed for useful purposes.

Anyway, one evening of a hot summer day, two earnest young men began an argument quite near the throng of moon-gazers. Gesticulating wildly and shouting at the top of their voices, the two young men argued for and against the government. Strollers stopped to listen and crowds gathered. Within an hour some 50 men and women were taking sides in the debate.

The two young men disappeared and in their stead, hovering on the outskirts of the group, were five or six policemen fingering their rubber batons. But there were no fights, no violence and no arrests.

* * *

Encouraged by the experiment, more earnest young men started open-air debates and more crowds gathered. Today they are regular features of Bucharest's evening parades.

* * *

The soap-box oratory is still in its infancy. There is still speculation as to when the first fist fight will break out. For the moment the discussions appear to serve as a daily opinion poll for the government which realizes that opposition sympathies are deep rooted and widespread.

Perhaps this is the reason for one of Romania's most popular radio shows. For 15 minutes every Monday the government-controlled Bucharest radio station gives time to Nae (pronounced nah-yeah), Smaranda, his wife, and Costache (pronounced kosta-keh).

Nae, a henpecked husband, is an ardent supporter of the opposition parties. When he is around the corner at the drugstore buying something for Smaranda or down in the cellar fetching turnips and onions, boy friend Costache stops in to say hello. When Smaranda and Costache are alone they have other things to talk about, but when the perspiring, panting and probably dishevelled Nae comes to the mike with his armful of turnips and onions, the three slide into political argument Costache is a staunch government man.

Maybe Smaranda's secret passion for Costache helps, but the bright and progressive boy friend always manages to swing household opinion around to the government viewpoint. He calls it commonsense.

But the other day there was a whoop of delight from Bucharest's newspaper columnists. The tired script writer of this government-sponsored political soap opera must have taken pity of Nae's more intimate household troubles for Nae scored heavily on friend Costache in the weekly argument.

What the script writer and the government censor got for that in the way of rebuke no one knows but the opposition made at least one point in the interminable series of arguments which always ended in government supporter Costache's favor. That was the political side of it. But for thousands of listening, henpecked husbands, the worm had turned.

COUNTY SEEKS FEDERAL FUNDS FOR HOSPITAL

M'Gregor Promises to Help Commissioners Get More Backing for TB Project.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor yesterday promised Richland county commissioners that he would investigate the terms of a recently passed congressional measure to see if federal money will be available to help build the proposed new tuberculosis sanatorium.

C. L. Shoup, chairman of the commissioners, said McGregor, reached by telephone at Coshocton, promised he would "do everything possible" to obtain federal funds to supplement the $300,000 bond issue passed last fall to finance the county's new TB hospital.

"McGregor said he wasn't familiar with the terms of Senate Bill 191, but would inquire and see if Richland county is eligible for federal money," Shoup said today.

A telephone call to the congressman's secretary in Washington revealed also that the bill is not yet law because President Truman has not signed it.

"However, his secretary said that the president is expected to sign it upon his return from Missouri," Shoup reported.

The commissioners are seeking federal funds at the suggestion of Architect H. S. Jones who, when he submitted his plans for the modern four-story 49-bed sanatorium, warned the commissioners their $300,000 will not be enough to build the hospital at present costs.

Demand Action.

Jones' warning Wednesday resulted in demands yesterday by two members of the county's TB advisory board that the commissioners advertise for bids and proceed with the project. They criticized "delays" in the project.

Oliver R. Hartman and Mrs. Herbert L. Smith, the advisory board members, pointed out that other construction work is being done and that the new hospital is a relatively small project. They both indicated that last fall they had tried to have the bond issue set at $400,000 instead of $300,000.

"If necessary, put up another bond issue for $100,000 to $200,000 this fall. The public needs and wants this hospital," Hartman had said.

Both Hartman and Mrs. Smith pointed out that the county at present has no legal title to use the old sanatorium building at 535 Lexington avenue because its lease expired July 21.

Commissioners explained today that the owner of the building, the T. Amos Jones estate, represented by Mrs. Barbara J. Nichols, administratrix, has promised the county will be protected although she wants to sell the property and will not enter into another lease.

"Mrs. Nichols said that if the property is sold, she will require, as a condition of sale, the new owner to give us a lease for as long as we need it. In other words, we can use the building until we have our new hospital in operation," Shoup said.

The commissioners have scheduled a meeting with Mrs. Nichols for Wednesday at 10 a. m. Further details are to be ironed out at that time, Shoup said.

ASKS INCREASED WATER SUPPLY

Coolridge Heights Seeks to Drill Well; Engineer to Check Site Next Week.

Two water supply problems—faced by a Mansfield industry and residents of Coolridge heights—may be settled by early next week, city officials reported today.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said that the state health department's chief engineer, F. H. Waring, is to be in Mansfield next Tuesday to inspect the site of a proposed new well for the Coolridge district.

The number of homes in the district is expected to increase to 215 before long, Dr. Wild said, and the area will need an added water supply. The wellsite has already been selected but must be approved by state engineers, he said.

Yesterday, the Westinghouse Electric corporation asked the city for increased water supply and pressure during a well-cleaning period. One of its wells will be down during the cleaning period and it needs the added water to maintain sufficient pressure.

Waterworks Supt. O. C. Kalbfleisch said that the city's Brooker well should be back in operation by next week and that the city at that time could supply the corporation with added supply and pressure.

When Chief Engineer Waring is here to inspect the Coolridge well site, Dr. Wild said that he will question him concerning problems of developing an area-wide sewer district. Such a district has been recommended by the city and county health boards.

Dr. Wild said that he believes Waring has had experience in developing such districts in other parts of the state and would know how to map such a program—"particularly with reference to financing it."

Crestline Woman Out $495 In Renewal of Confidence Game

This time the age-old "Pigeon Drop" confidence game began in Crestline and ended in Mansfield. Result: a Crestline woman is out $495.

Mrs. Ollie B. Gales, of Crestline, told Mansfield police that she turned over $495 of her own money to a man and a woman who promised her in return a share of $3,000 which she found in a purse on a Crestline street.

The $495 was to be Mrs. Gales' share of a fund being set up by the three to show their "good faith" in dividing the "found" money.

The confidence game ended as it usually does with the two racketeers and all the money missing.

The Crestline woman's loss marked the second time the "Pigeon Drop" game has been worked in Mansfield — in recent weeks—both times by a man and a woman. Police said, however, that two pairs seems to be conducting the game.

TODD TO HEAD RESERVE GROUP

Officers Elect At Meeting At Legion Home; Plan Part In Victory Parade.

With their charter received from national headquarters the Richland county Chapter of the Reserve Officers' association last night elected permanent officers for the coming year at a meeting in the American Legion home.

Coleman B. Todd, 400 Park avenue west, and Robert Finical, 275 Vennum avenue, were re-elected to the offices of president and secretary, respectively.

James R. McConnell, 643 Cook road, was elected vice president and Robert C. Kaser, 15½ State street, was chosen as treasurer.

Organized several months ago, the Richland county chapter had been operating with provisional officers pending receipt of the charter.

Formal presentation of the charter will be made at the next meeting to be held in September.

At last night's meeting members voted to participate in the Victory parade next Wednesday and to extend invitations to all officers in this area to march with them.

The marchers will wear summer uniforms, with tie and overseas cap and without blouse. Officers planning to march in the parade were asked to meet at the rear of Gardner's garage at 6:15 p. m.

HELPING JUSTICE—

The doors of justice will swing more smoothly—once the carpenter finishes his work. Getting new double direction hinges is Mansfield's municipal court room. Aside from permitting you to get out of court as "fast" as you get in, the new hinges also will serve another purpose. Judge H. H. Schettler says they're also being installed "for peace and quiet" purposes. He says opening and closing of the old doors is so noisy that concentration is difficult. PS: The court room is scheduled, next year, to be moved to an "all quiet," third floor location.

AT IT AGAIN—

The dictionary says katy-did is "a large green arboreal insect of the grasshopper family," but to believers in signs and sounds, it's a forecaster of frost. The noisy insects are tuning up now in the thickets around Mansfield, and some folks think it's a sure sign that the first frost will arrive in six weeks, which would be soon after mid-September. Reliability of the katy-dids as weather forecasters might be questioned, however, for they begin their concert about the same time every summer, and the first frost in this section usually doesn't come until about Oct. 1, sometimes later.

But today's mail brought news of one that tops that mark. Put Out Tiro Blaze Despite Handicaps

TIRO—Shouts of "get a horse" echoed in Tiro this morning as firemen pushed their ancient truck to the Frozen Food Locker company to extinguish a blaze in a truck belonging to the Brothers, Chase, and Fogle Insulation company of Canton.

After extinguishing the fire, which started in a blower motor on the truck, the firemen, still unable to start the fire engine, pushed the vehicle back to the station house.

CORN, WHEAT OUTPUT NEAR RECORD HIGH

Corn Forecast Nearly Nine Million Bushels Above Early Prediction.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Government officials today forecast an easing of restrictions on the use of grain in the near future as prospects brightened for the largest corn and wheat crops in U. S. history.

An agriculture department spokesman said that some restrictions might be eased, but he pointed out that it was improbable that all limitations on the use of grain would be lifted this year.

These restrictions ban the use of grain in alcoholic beverages, limit the size of the present bread loaf, limit the extraction rate of flour from wheat, and restrict feeding of grain to livestock.

In its monthly crop report based on Aug. 1 conditions, the agricultural department estimated this year's corn output at three billion, 496 million, 820 thousand bushels and the wheat yield at one billion, 160 million, 366 thousand bushels.

Boosts Estimate.

The corn production forecast is nearly nine million bushels more than the output predicted by the department on July 15, and the Aug. 1 wheat expectations are twenty-eight million bushels above the July 15th estimate of 1946 yield.

Agriculture officials speculated that the actual 1946 wheat and corn output might exceed the latest forecast. They pointed out that for the last seven years the final corn production has been from three to nine per cent more than the Aug. 1 expectations.

The previous record corn crop was the three billion, 203 million bushel harvest of 1944. To date, the largest wheat output in any one year was the one billion, 123 million bushel production turned out last year.

The agriculture department said favorable growing conditions for the country "as a whole" in July accounted for the brighter prospects of record 1946 crops.

In addition to the bumper wheat and corn outputs, record tobacco, peach, plum and truck crops are anticipated this year. Near-record crops of oats, rice, peanuts, potatoes, pears, grapes, cherries, and sugarcane also are expected.

America's aggregate crop production of the year is estimated at 27 per cent above the 1923-32 average and three per cent above the previous record year of 1942.

Pottery At Perrysville Completes New Addition

PERRYSVILLE—Completion of a new addition that will eventually increase production by one-half was announced this week by the Mansfield Sanitary Pottery company, makers of high grade single-fired sanitary wares.

A party tonight beginning at 7:30 for more than 115 employes will mark completion of a new building, which was started last November but held up by scarcity of materials.

J. C. Gorman, of Mansfield, vice president and member of the board of directors, will make a dedicatory address at the party tonight.

Two orchestras will play for round and square dancing and motion pictures will be shown. A luncheon is among arrangements being handled by the employes' recreation committee headed by C. W. Daubert.

The new addition of 16,000 square feet of floor space will increase the total area of the plant to approximately 90,000 square feet. It will house a foundry for making brass fittings now made under a sub contract, a machine shop, and inspection, assembly, packing and shipping departments.

Employment of nearly 150 persons is planned by the company under the expansion program centering in the new additions.

With completion of the building, plant officials expect to begin installation of the company's third kiln as soon as possible in order to meet demands for their products. Last year the company did more than a quarter million dollars worth of business and still did not fill all its orders.

The new kiln will be of the same type as the two now in operation—gas-fired for single glazing with top temperature around 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit.

Originally located at Fredericksburg near Wooster, the company has been in Perrysville for 13 years. Wilson Drouhard, of Massillon, is president, Henry Hoar, of Perrysville, works manager, and W. R. Hainer, 62 Bartley avenue, Mansfield, secretary and treasurer.
